In accordance with section 75(1) of the GIPA Act, a new record containing information from the Compliance Operations Branch has been created. This new record is below:

In NSW there are currently 178 Red Light Speed Cameras at 160 intersections, 133 Fixed Digital Speed Cameras and 45 Mobile Speed Camera Vehicles.

This response is provided in accordance with the date range as per the GIPA request.

Response to “All calibration certificates that identified a incorrectly calibrated speed cameras”:

No calibrations certificates were generated for any device not operating correctly. In excess of 85,000 tests were carried out across the network of enforcement cameras and certificates produced on each occasion attesting to the devices operating correctly, in line with manufacturer’s specification and relevant legislation, at the time of certification.*

This includes Red Light Speed Cameras, Fixed Digital Speed Cameras, and Mobile Speed Cameras.*

Response to “Any report on issues of accuracy and reliability of NSW speed cameras”:

Maintenance issues affecting accuracy occur rarely and other reliability issues occur occasionally between certification tests.

A total of 3 speed camera related maintenance events have been attributed to accuracy issues as per the attached report (page 1 of information released). Any affected incidents were culled or penalty notices withdrawn if they had been issued.

A total of 502 speed camera related maintenance events were generated as per the attached report (pages 2-41 of the information released). Despite some of these being attributed to reliability issues, the systems are inherently reliable given the environmental conditions they operate within, and uptime is typically >95%. In addition to the attached report, Roads & Maritime is advised that 6 radar units were replaced within the Mobile Speed Camera program.

Any camera maintenance issue detected that has any possibility of causing an invalid infringement being sent to a member of the public results in a camera being taken offline until the maintenance issue is identified, rectified and re-certified where necessary. The policy of Roads & Maritime is to ensure that any incidents that could be negatively affected by accuracy or reliability issues do not result in a penalty notice being issued, or withdrawn where appropriate.
