

Application for Police Approval to Conduct Brake Tests on Public Roads

Vehicle Safety Compliance Certification Scheme (VSCCS)

To the local Police Traffic Section,
The NSW Police have advised VSCCS licensed certifiers must obtain Police Service approval to conduct brake tests on public roads. This form is to get approval from the local Police station for brake tests to be conducted on the proposed road public road by this licensed certifier.

1. Business details

Trading name (the name that the certifier trades under)

Business address

Business telephone

VSCCS licence number

2. Type of vehicles to be brake tested

Light Vehicles

The road must be 100 metres long, be a hard level surface which is free from gravel or other loose materials

Heavy Vehicles

The road must be 350 metres long, be a hard level surface which is free from gravel or other loose materials

3. Proposed road

Proposed road(s) where brakes may be tested

Town or suburb

4. Licensed certifier's details

To be signed by the licensed certifier

Surname

Given name

Signature

Date

5. Police permission to test brakes

Required if an efficiency meter will be used on public roads
Under the provisions of the Road Transport Act 2013; the applicant may test the vehicle's brakes on the road/s named below, provided the tests are carried out in daylight. In conducting these tests, the applicant must comply with all traffic laws and obey any police directions. This permission may be withdrawn at any time. The police will not be liable for any consequences of the test.

Approved road(s) where brakes may be tested

Town or suburb

Officer's surname

Rank

Signature

Police station

Date

Police Station Official Stamp