

Have your say – Nelson Bay Road and Lemon Tree Passage Road intersection, Salt Ash

The NSW Government is investing $275 million to improve safety and travel times on Nelson Bay Road including duplicating the road from Williamtown to Bobs Farm and delivering early work at the Nelson Bay Road and Lemon Tree Passage Road intersection and the Nelson Bay Road and Medowie Road intersection.

Roads and Maritime is inviting your feedback on a proposal to upgrade the Nelson Bay Road and Lemon Tree Passage Road intersection to improve safety and traffic flow.

We have included a plan to show the proposed improvements, which include:

- providing an additional left turn lane into Lemon Tree Passage Road from Nelson Bay Road
- extending the eastbound merge lane on Nelson Bay Road. This includes adjusting driveways and associated drainage on the eastern side of the roundabout to accommodate road widening for the extended lane
- extending the two lane approach to the roundabout on Lemon Tree Passage Road
- providing an additional westbound lane on Nelson Bay Road on approach to the roundabout
- providing off-road cycle paths around the roundabout to improve safety for cyclists
- providing footpath and kerb ramps to improve safety for pedestrians and cyclists
- removing and replacing concrete medians
- road resurfacing and new line marking.

Update on early work on Nelson Bay Road

Work to improve the Nelson Bay Road and Medowie Road intersection at Williamtown started in August 2018. This work is continuing with utility relocations completed in December and construction activities started in February 2019.

We are also planning a project to duplicate Nelson Bay Road from Williamtown to Bobs Farm. The work currently under way at the Medowie Road intersection and the proposed work at the Lemon Tree Passage intersection is part of the Nelson Bay Road duplication project.
