

Long-term closure of Dora Street from Monday 8 April

Roads and Maritime Services is duplicating the Pacific Highway between Ourimbah Street and Parsons Road, Lisarow to improve traffic flow and safety.

Dora Street will be closed to all through traffic at its intersection with Railway Crescent (eastern end) from 8 April 2019. Pedestrian access will be maintained during the closure.

Why are you closing Dora Street?

Dora Street needs to be closed to allow work to continue on the Pacific Highway duplication, including the building of the new four-lane bridge over the rail line, and traffic light intersection at the Pacific Highway and Railway Crescent.

There are a number of utilities which need to be moved near the end of Dora Street and there will be a significant change in road level and alignment which will not allow access to traffic through the existing intersection at Railway Crescent.

How long will it be closed and how do I get out?

Dora Street will be closed for about two years to allow the work to be carried out, weather permitting. Road users will have to use a detour via Dora Street, Cambourn Avenue and Excelsior Street to access Railway Crescent. We have included a map to show the detour route.

We have consulted emergency services, Central Coast Council and other service providers in planning for the closure of Dora Street.
